The coroner's jury in Philadelphia investigating the Central Theatre fire rendered a verdict on Saturday charging gross neglgence in having a stairway open at the top and closed at the bottom, and no convenient means of access from the dressing rooms directly to the outside of the building, and in having locked doors between the stage and auditorium.

Notwithstanding the fact that J. L. Dillon already has 40,000 square feet of glass in his flower houses, he has not room enough, and cannot supply all the orders that come to him from every direction. His new houses on Fifth street above Oak Grove will contain 30,000 square feet of glass, making in all 70,000 feet, which is probably the largest in the state.

A portrait of Mr. Hess' father exhibited in his store window is a fair sample of the work.

This will give the eight young ladies an opportunity to thoroughly prepare themselves for the state examinations, and at no expense

There were three graduates, Misses Jennie R. Scott and Ella M. Clewell and Harry G. Dechant. The exercises were commenced by invocation from Rev. U. Myers. The address of the evening was given by Henry A. Fuller Esq., of Wilkes-Barre. It was one of the most interesting addresses on the subject of "Education" we have ever heard. The address was eloquent, full of pleasing hits and much sound sense. Mrs. Carrie B. Kilgore of Philadelphia, gave the address to the graduates, upon the subject of "Woman in the Profession." Mrs. Kilgore was the first woman to be admitted into the practice of law in this state. Her address proved that she was fully enthused on the subject of woman's rights. BLOOMSBURG PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

One of the most successful years in the public schools closed Wednesday of last week, and was publicly commemorated Thursday evening May 12, when Hattie F. Carpenter, Minnie G. Hehl, Kate Peifer, Irene L. Girtor, Jessie B Ent, Emma Cadman, Theresa Hehl and G. Carrie Briggs, graduates, took part in the first Commencement of the Bloomsburg Public Schools. Two causes brought about this result. The first was the compilation and adoption of a graded course of study, having as an object, graduation in the Normal course, Business course and Seintific course. The course of study was arranged by the committee on text books, etc, and about a year ago adopted by the Board of Directors. The first step having been accomplished, the next was to secure a person, as principal, who could begin the work upon the new basis. The Board by a unanimous vote selected Prof. L. P. Sterner, who had served as assistant in the High School for the two previous years. The new principal entered upon the work with a determination to give the course of study a thorough test, that it might be ascertained how well it was adapted to the schools and if defects were found to report them to the Board of Directors; most of the teachers in the district labored diligently with the principal. The supervising work that is necessary for a principal where we have three separate buildings, consumed much time, attention could therefore only be chiefly directed this year to the one course, viz: the Normal course and accordingly eight persons have graduated.

A class in the Business course was commenced this year, from which a number will graduate next year. A few have commenced the Scientific Course, who wish to pursue more advanced studies.

Soon after the opening of the fall term the principal appointed monthly teachers' institutes to be held the second Saturday of each month. These institutes were attended by the teachers; with but few exceptions; much good resulted. The attendance was better, while the citizens seemed to give personal attention to the welfare of their children—this cannot be better illustrated than by stating that 701 persons visited the schools against only 363 the previous year; 145 visits to the High School against 15. Six pupils outside the district attended the High School, against none the previous year. The members of the Board of Directors were aroused to the needs of the schools and made frequent visits, offering suggestions when needed.

The principal made monthly reports to the Board of the progress of the schools, this was an innovation; and was more faithfully carried out than the Boad had hoped for when it was incorporated in the rules to the principal;—it was a gratification to the Board to learn monthly of the progress in the schools. In the final report there was recommended a few changes in the course of study, the adoption of a system of physical exercises and music, and a course of supplementary reading.

There are many things that claim the attention of the Board during the summer, before beginning a new term. The attendance in the schools will require additional teachers, the buildings at Third and Fifth street should be remodled and we ought to give nine months term of school. The progressive spirit of the town has entered the Board of Education and it is hoped our schools will soon rank first in the land.

A class in the Business course was commenced this year, from which a number will graduate next year. A few have commenced the Scientific Course, who wish to pursue more advanced studies.

Soon after the opening of the fall term the principal appointed monthly teachers' institutes to be held the second Saturday of each month. These institutes were attended by the teachers; with but few exceptions; much good resulted. The attendance was better, while the citizens seemed to give personal attention to the welfare of their children—this cannot be better illustrated than by stating that 701 persons visited the schools against only 363 the previous year; 145 visits to the High School against 15. Six pupils outside the district attended the High School, against none the previous year. The members of the Board of Directors were aroused to the needs of the schools and made frequent visits, offering suggestions when needed.

The principal made monthly reports to the Board of the progress of the schools, this was an innovation; and was more faithfully carried out than the Boad had hoped for when it was incorporated in the rules to the principal;—it was a gratification to the Board to learn monthly of the progress in the schools. In the final report there was recommended a few changes in the course of study, the adoption of a system of physical exercises and music, and a course of supplementary reading.

There are many things that claim the attention of the Board during the summer, before beginning a new term. The attendance in the schools will require additional teachers, the buildings at Third and Fifth street should be remodled and we ought to give nine months term of school. The progressive spirit of the town has entered the Board of Education and it is hoped our schools will soon rank first in the land.

OVER AND OVER.

"Just the same thing over and over!"
But that is the way of the world, my dear;
Over and over, over and over,
Old things repeated from year to year!

Hear what the sun saith: "Patient still,
The vaulted heavens I climb and climb
Over and over with tireless will,
Day after day till the end of time!

"Never a pause and never a rest;
Yet every morning the earth is new,
And ever the clouds in the golden West
Have a fresh glory shining through."

Hear what the grass saith: "Up the hills
And through the orchard I creep and creep,
Over the meadows, and where the rills
Laugh in the shadows cool and deep.

"Every spring it is just the same!
And because it is, I am sure to see
The oriole's flash of vivid flame
In the pink-white bloom of the apple tree."

Hear what dear Love saith: "Ah, I hear
The same old story over and over;
Mother and maiden, year by year
Whisper it still to child and lover!

"But sweeter it grows from age to age
The song begotten so long ago,
When first man came to his heritage,
And walked with God in the even glow."

FIGHTING THE SIOUX.

In the summer of '77, after having spent a couple of months in the mining camps of the Black Hills, in one of which I had bartered away most of my worldly possessions for a well "salted" claim, I chanced, one day, unfortunately, as circumstances afterward proved, to learn that a party of miners were to start to the Big Horn mountains, where it was reported an unusually rich discovery had been made.

At that time the flotsam contingent to the population of Deadwood amounted to several thousand, and the air was charged with rumors of gold discoveries and encounters with Indians.

The story that gave rise to the Big Horn "stampede" was a very seductive one. Charles Lions, a frontiersman of some notoriety, had just made his appearance in Deadwood with the report that he with three other prospectors had discovered exceedingly rich diggings on a small stream tributary to Powder River in the Big Horn mountains. But on the very day they located the mine they were attacked by Indians, and he thought his three companions were killed on the spot, while he escaped by the merest chance.

He proposed to guide a company to the mine, provided they would furnish him with a saddle horse, a pack pony, and a month's provision. He commenced to recite his story to one man on the street; he was soon surrounded by a crowd; and before he had told it twice there were dozens of men ready to subscribe money enough to purchase all he required and join his expedition at once.

It was thought best to restrict the company to fifty men, as a small body could travel faster than a large one, and there would be a better chance for each to get a good claim.

The Sioux at that time marauding about the Black Hills were small bands that would steal away from the agencies, and after doing some depredation, slip back again. Old Sitting Bull and the main force of his warriors were across the border, enjoying the protection and hospitality of the Canadians.

The men who had furnished the money to buy Lions an outfit were anxious to be off at once. I knew nothing of the expedition till they were all gone, but as soon as I learned the direction they had taken I started on their trail.

There is nothing which so fixes the confidence of gold hunters with regard to rumors of new mines as to learn that men who have been there have come in quietly for supplies and are trying to slip away again.

I had a yoke of Cherokee cattle and a light wagon. There were three men with me, two of whom had ponies; the other one travelled on foot. They eagerly agreed to give me ten cents a pound for hauling their blankets, provisions and utensils, and were to pay in dust when they took it out of the ground.

We camped at Spear Fish for the night. During the evening three teams passed us with two men to each team and several horsemen. They were the sheriff and his deputies in search of a horse thief.

The next morning we were on the move as soon as it was light enough to follow their wagon tracks. Our way lay across a rolling tableland covered with sage brush. We had pursued our course but a short distance when we saw a horse approaching at a full run, with bridle and saddle but no rider; he ran straight to us, and was apparently greatly frightened. He was assigned to the footman, and we resumed our journey.

A mile or so further on we came to a trunk which lay burst open by the side of the trail. In it, and scattered about on the ground, were a number of letters. One young fellow, Harry Brown by name, became so much interested in these that he continued to read them while the rest of us rode on, thus falling a mile in the rear.

In the meantime, we had reached and passed the body of a man who had been recently killed, and lay scalped by the trail. We knew at once that Indians were near, and felt no surprise when we discovered a small band of them on some rising ground about a half mile ahead. They had noted this man in our rear, and headed their ponies down a ravine with a view to cutting him off.

Anticipating their designs, we stopped and signalled our companion to speed on; but our signals were unnecessary, for although Harry could not see the savages he had reached the dead man, and was already putting his pony to its best speed.

The Indians bore down on him until they were almost within range of our Sharp's "old reliables," which were levelled at them from the opposite side of our wagons, when they drove off and allowed him to join us.

"By George! that was a narrow escape!" he exclaimed, when safe in our midst.

"I hope it'll teach you to be more car'ful in future," said one of the others, a grizzled old graybeard. "It beats all how foolish young chaps are."

Brown was silent; he realized that he had been near death, and shuddered when, a little later, we passed two more dead bodies.

We had all been some time on the frontier, yet we drew a breath of relief when we came to the border of the plateau and looked down on the encampment of men of our own kind, who had taken strong ground on a small valley in a bend of the Red Water.

The dead men we had seen were a part of the sheriff's party, who had been to the encampment and secured the stolen team and one of the thieves, and after waiting for daylight, had started back, only to encounter the savages. The trunk and letters had been the property of the prisoner. It is probable that during the flight the officer cut the cords with which he was bound; but his doom was sealed; the poor fellow met a harder fate than he merited.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's horse made his way into Spear Fish, and the blood with which the saddle was stained told at once of foul dealing. A courier posted into Deadwood, where a company of about forty well armed men was soon raised, and just before sundown they reached our party.

We broke camp at once and returned to Deadwood, taking up the dead men on our way, and carrying them as far as Spear Fish, where they were decently buried. Night came on while we were crossing the tableland, and as we could see the Indians' signal fires in several places they were evidently arranging for a united attack.

After a few days' delay we started again, this time with a company of two hundred men. The horseman were required to do the scouting, and the men with teams to do picket duty.

During the first week we had three skirmishes; in the first two of our men were killed; in the second, one man was wounded; in the third our stock was stampeded, and they stole several of our horses.

As we approached the Crow Indians' country the Sioux ceased to harass us; and finally, after more than a month's travel, we reached the gulch where we all hoped to speedily gain a fortune. But here we were doomed to dissapointment; Lions' story was largely a production of his imagination, and when we had satisfied ourselves of the utter worthlessness of the country for mining purposes, we were glad to go in a body to Fort Custer, which was then in process of construction. All who wished it found employment at the fort. Some continued down the Big Horn to the Yellowstone, where they took passage on a steamboat for the States. But the greater number journeyed on to the settlements of upper Montana; fortunately our way in that direction lay across the reservation of the Crows, a tribe which has always been friendly to the whites.

Forty-Dollar Bills.

A game with which Assistant Postmaster James Gayler is familiar from his long and varied experience is that of the man who says in his letter, "I enclose five dollars," and then forwards the missive without putting the money into it. The fellow's letter arrives without the enclosure, and then a vigorous complaint is made to the postal authorities. Sometimes it is impossible to prove whether the money was placed in the letter or not, but occasionally the ingenuity of a post office inspector lays the scheme bare.

Mr. Gayler has discomfited not a few men who were loud in their denunciation of the mail service, among the cases being that of a dissipated soldier. He had lost his pay by gambling, instead of sending it to his wife. He boldly, however, wrote to her, saying that he enclosed eighty dollars in the letter. The page was smeared with mucilage, but the envelope contained no money.

The wife made a complaint to the post office authorities, and Mr. Gayler was instructed to look up the case. He did so, and happened to call on the woman when her husband was at home on a furlough. The man was positive that he had put the money in the envelope.

"In what denomination were the bills?" Mr. Gayler asked him.

"There were two forty-dollar bills," answered the soldier.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, certain," said the man.

And Mr. Gayler spent no more time on the case, except to offer the soldier fifty dollars for every forty-dollar bill he could find.

The Iron Duke's Presence of Mind.

One day, as the Duke of Wellington sat writing at his library table, quite alone, his door was suddenly opened without a knock or announcement of any sort, and in stalked a gaunt man, who confronted the commander-in-chief with his hat on and a savage expression of countenance. The duke was of course a little vexed at such an unceremonious interruption, and, glancing up, he asked,

"Who are you?"

"I am Dionysius," was the singular answer.

"Well, what do you want?"

"Your life."

"My life?"

"Yes; I want to kill you."

"Very odd," said the duke, sitting back and calmly gazing at the intruder.

"Not at all, for I am Dionysius," said the stranger; "and I must put you to death."

"Are you obliged to perform this duty to-day?" asked the commander-in-chief; "I am very busy just now, and have a large number of letters to write. It would be very inconvenient to-day."

The visitor looked hard during a moment's pause.

"Call again," continued the duke, "or write and make an appointment."

"You'll be ready?"

"Without fail," was the reply.

The maniac, awed doubtless by the calm bearing of the stern old soldier, backed out of the room without further words, and half an hour later was safe in bedlam.

The Great American Hog

Is welcome abroad once more, and abroad he may go. As long as Lard was a requisite in every kitchen, the Great American Hog was highly esteemed at home; but now that modern science has introduced the new vegetable substitute for Lard, poor Piggy's occupation's gone.

The reason for this is threefold. COTTOLENE is cleaner, healthier and much more economical. A trial has convinced thousands as to this. It will convince any "convincable" person. Will you be convinced?

The happiest moment of your life will be when you have used a bottle of DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE and found it has cured you of the most distressing diseases that ever afflicted the human family.

Coal Prices Rule Low.

THE FIGURES FOR NEW YORK.

From the loud clamor that has recently been raised regarding the alleged exorbitant price of coal, the consequent imaginary oppression of the poor and the other direful results that are said to have followed the consolidation of other railroads with the Reading, the natural supposition would be by those who do not follow coal prices closely that the present figures are unusually high and that the Reading is inflicting a heavy burden on consumers. An examination of the prices for several years past shows that there is no basis for such an idea and that, instead of the price being higher, it is now below the average for the past eight years.

When THE RECORD began the sale of coal on September 26, 1884, the retailers of the city were demanding $6.50 a ton, an exorbitant price, for which there was no justification. THE RECORD made an agreement with a reputable dealer by which he was to retail coal for it at a moderate but fair profit. The price fixed was $5.75 a ton. That price was afterwards changed to correspond with the fluctuations in wholesale figures.

COAL PRICES FOR EIGHT YEARS.

The following table shows what THE RECORD price has been on May 9 of each year:

1885	$5.50	1889	$5.00
1886	4.90	1890	4.50
1887	5.25	1891	4.60
1888	5 25	1892	4.85

The price is lower now, it will be observed, than at any other time, except 1890 and 1891. The average price for the eight years is $4.98, or 13 cents more than the figures now ruling—a showing that effectually refutes any charge that present figures are exorbitantly high.

AS TO NEW YORK.

The same condition of affairs prevails at New York, where so great an outcry has been raised, according to the May wholesale circulars for several years past. These show the following figures for the several sizes of anthracite coal:

	1888	1889	1890	1891	1892
Grate..	$3.45	$3.75	$3.50	$3.50	$3.75
Egg....	4.00	3.90	3.50	3.50	3.90
Stove...	4.25	4.15	3.75	3.75	4.15
Chestnut	4.25	4.00	3.50	3.50	3.90

From this it appears that the prices are lower in 1888 and 1889, and higher than in 1890 and 1891, and about equal to the average for the past five years. The fact that the Retail Coal Dealers' Association of New York refused the other day to raise prices to consumers, retaining them at the present figures, $5.25 a ton for stove coal, is the most conclusive argument of all in showing that coal is to be no higher under the new order of things than under the old.

Since it is now a well-established fact that catarrh is a blood disease, medical men are quite generally prescribing Ayer's Sarsaparilla for that most loathsome complaint, and the result, in nearly every instance, proves the wisdom of their advice.

West Chester State Normal School's annual report, just submitted to the stock-holders, gives the receipts at $114,082, and the expenditures the same, with the exception of a balance of $17 409 on hand March 29. There were 668 shares represented in the annual meeting.

A Relic of St Ann.

A MEMENTO MOST SACRED TO CATHOLICS ON VIEW IN NEW YORK.

In a gold lined casket on the altar in the quaint little French Church of St. Jean Baptiste, 159 East Seventy-sixth street, has lain each day since Monday, from half past 6 till 10 a. m., the most sacred relic in Catholic eyes of the days when Christ walked the earth which ever reached America. It is a large fragment of the embalmed arm of St. Ann, mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of Jesus.

For many centuries it has been guarded more jealously than were ever guarded royal jewels or kingly crowns by the Benedictine monks of Rome in the great basilica of St. Paul's outside the walls. Now, by special request of his holiness the pope, a portion of it is sent to increase the faith and devotion of all members of the church in the United States and Canada.

This relic, which will be regarded by Catholics everywhere with the deepest feeling of piety and joy, is to be kept at the Church of Ste. Anne de Beupre, on the St. Lawrence river. Another piece of the arm is on its way and will be enshrined in the church where the fragment above referred to is exposed.

A PERSONAL MATTER.

For nearly seventeen years I have been one of the editors of THE COLUMBIAN. In all that time I have never written a line that was intended to reflect upon the private personal character of any man. A most flagrant and outrageous violation of all the rules of common decency and of respectable journalism, that appeared in the last issue of the Sentinel over the signature of one of William Brickbaum's hirelings, affords a most tempting occasion to make an exception to that rule, but however aggravating the circumstances, I shall not put myself on a level with an irresponsible blackguard. The allegations therein made are maliciously false, and I am perfectly willing to let this community judge between us.

GEO. E. ELWELL.

The House has decided the contest between Geo H. Shonk and John B. Reynolds in the Luzerne congressional district, in favor of the former.

The Philadelphia Times is making it warm for the men who having been personating other people on the jury in that city.

The Prince of Wales is suffering from an affection of the throat which it is feared may prove the same as that which caused the death of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany.

There is likely to be no dearth in Democratic candidates for Congress in the Twelfth Luzerne district. John B. Reynolds has signified his intention to again run for the nomination, while Senator Hines and Recorder McGinty are also anxious to secure that honor. With three such hustlers as these times will be lively in political circles in Luzerne county.

The republican candidates on the State ticket, together with the permanent chairman of the recent State Convention, met at Harrisburg Tuesday, and selected General Frank Reeder, of Northampton county, to act as State Chairman during the coming campaign. Lieutenant Governor Watres declined to act as chairman another term, and Judge Dean at least would have preferred Watres to Reeder, as Watres was not to be had on any allowable terms he accepted Reeder as the only candidate offered.

The anti Harrison Republicans are still tugging away viciously at the President's scalp and they insist vigorously that it will dangle from their belt when the Minneapolis convention adjourns. Nevertheless, they do not attempt to conceal the anomolous situation in which they are placed. The talk of Sherman, Alger, Gresham, McKinley, Reed or Rusk has only served so far to create rivalry and disintegrate the opposition, and after all it is evident that the one man upon whom they can unite and in whom their hopes are centred is James G. Blaine.

They believe that he can be nominated—sick or well—at any stage of the proceedings if he will but permit it. But Mr. Blaine is as stoical as a sphynx. All efforts to secure from him a pledge that he will not peremptorily decline before the convention or that he will decline the nomination after it is made have been unavailing. Mr. Blaine refuses to discuss the prospect of his candidacy, except to declare that he does not want the nomination. The fact that he does not say that he will refuse the nomination gives his friends hope that he will not decline.

After the Grip Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore your strength and health, and expel every trace of poison from the blood.

THE USE OF MONEY IN POLITICS

The following article from the Philadelphia Press of Wednesday clearly and truthfully depicts the political situation in many counties of the state. The custom referred to prevails no where to a greater extent than in Columbia county. The greatest public evil of the day is the corrupt use of money in politics. The Press says:

"The ground upon which Mr. Reynolds is contesting the seat of Congressman Shonk, of the Twelfth District, is the corrupt use of money in the election. Mr. Shonk in his reply admitted that he had spent nearly $10,000 in his canvass, but denied that it was done corruptly, and no evidence has been produced to show that there was any corruption on Mr. Shonk's part.

The Wilkes-Barre Record, printed in the Twelfth District, undertakes to show the necessity for large expenditure there, and that a great deal of money can be used without any of it designedly going to corrupt a single voter. First, the county is a very large one, and a thorough canvass requires several thousands of dollars. Second, hundreds and hundreds of dollars are shamefully wasted upon heelers and strikers, who look upon a candidate as their natural and legitimate prey. It is asserted, and no doubt truthfully, that these strikers have been encouraged in the past by the mistaken liberality of candidates who allowed themselves to be bled to the extent of many thousands of dollars, and it is practically useless to hope for an election without yielding to them.

This is doubtless the supreme evil. It will grow from year to year unless candidates are found who have the courage to refuse to submit to it, let the result be what it may. To pay money to strikers and heelers because they would constitute a dangerous element of opposition if they did not get it is itself corruption, although it may not be defined as such in the statutes. It has become such a common practice, however, that the candidate regards it as a necessary and legitimate part of his duty. We have never believed that the charge of bribery could hold against Mr. Shonk, and it has not held, but to pay $10,000 in a canvass for election to an office worth only that sum for a two years' term must be regarded as demoralizing.

If Mr. Shonk found it necessary to do this because some one else had done it before him, it was only a common experience. The free use of money in politics has made it impossible in some districts to carry on a campaign with less than was previously used, and generally more is required in each succeeding canvass. The striker who has been paid this year refuses to do anything, or does it on the other side, next year unless he is again paid. And year after year this goes on, getting worse all the time. It was seriously felt by the management of the Republican State campaign last year, following as it did upon the demoralizing money campaign of the year before. It is everybody's secret that it was difficult to get a good many who ordinarily regard themselves as active party men to interest themselves, because they could not get the same inspiration as they had in the previous canvass.

Nobody can pretend that such use of money as this is right. It encourages disreputable methods. It makes it impossible for a man without a fortune to accept a nomination for office, no matter what his merits. Sooner or later it leads to almost open corruption and demoralization. It is one of the threatening and most dangerous evils of the day, and cannot be continued indefinitely."

Secretary Worman of the Pennsylvania Democratic Society, has issued the following address to Democratic societies throughout the State: "The Democratic Society impatiently awaits the coming of the battle. Its members believe in the success, the glory and the grand destiny of our great Keystone State. The Democratic Society of Pennsylvania was not founded for a single mission which accomplished, left drifting with no fixed star of principle to guide it. The influence of the past speak to us in the voice of the present. It fights for measures, not men; the principle of government, not men's characters, are to be discussed; a nation's policy, not personal ambition is to be determined. We enter the fight with a living faith founded upon principles that are just, enduring as old as the nation itself, yet ever young, vigorous and progressive because there is ever work for it to do. Its greatest good, its highest glory is that it is and is to be the people's party. Organize, reunite, Democratic societies."

H. H. Rutter, editor of the Hughesville Mail; Charles B. Seeley, editor of the Jersey Shore Herald; Walter E. Ritter, of Williamsport, and John Engler of Limestone township, are announced as Democratic legislative candidates from Lycoming, a county that has three members. Ritter and Seeley served in the session of '90–'91.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 16, 1892.

Mr. Harrison has more trouble in his official family, as if the Blaine shadow, which crosses his path at every turn, were not cross enough for any ordinary President to bear. Secretaries Foster and Elkins, who have jointly managed Mr. Harrison's campaign up to this time, now threaten to desert him and cast their influence with the opposition. The cause of this revolt is the return to this country of John C. New, who comes for the purpose of taking the full control of the Harrison forces, making Foster and Elkins merely subordinate figures during the remainder of the fight. If the threat is carried out, goodbye to Mr. Harrison's hopes.

The sudden death of Senator Barbour of Virginia, on Saturday morning from heart failure, is a loss to his State, his party and his country, that will long be felt. As a party leader he has had no superior in his State, and few in the nation; as a Senator his long experience in public life gave him a prestige which the ablest men can in no other way acquire, a prestige that was valuable to his party, and which was never used for his personal avantage. Personally he was, as Senator McMillan said, "My ideal of the perfect gentleman," and was liked by all who knew him. Funeral services were held over the remains this afternoon in the Senate chamber. The names of Gov McKinney and ex-Gov. Fitzhugh Lee are spoken of as candidates for the vacancy in the Senate.

Chairman Springer is again hard at work, and he expects several new tariff bills, including free coper and iron ores and a reduction in the duty on steel rails, to be reported to the House shortly. Free binding-twine is finding friends among the republican Senators from the West and a movement is on foot to yoke it with free refined sugar and push it through the Senate.

There is a marked difference of opinion among democratic Senators as to the policy the party should at this time adopt in dealing with appropriations for new vessels for the navy. Senator Gorman takes the ground that the country should have a navy to be proud of, and that the cry of economy should not prevent the spending of a liberal amount of mony in building new ships. Senator Mills, on the other hand, says he is opposed to a government which would to day if it were a private corporation, be in the hands of a receiver, spending money that it has not in its treasury, for something that is not absolutely necessary, and favors striking out all appropriations for new ships and letting the government come back to the lesson that governments, like individuals, must live within their incomes. There was the same difference of opinion when the naval appropriation bill, now being considered by the Senate, was before the House, and the bill as passed by the House was a compromise between those who wished to appropriate a very large amount for new vessels and those opposed to making any appropriation for that purpose.

So far the much advertised battle-royal between Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt and Postmaster General Wanamaker has got no further than the harmless "you're another" stage.

Secretary Foster has at last concluded to assume responsibility for the expenditure of immigrant head money upon the improvements on Ellis' Island, and, in a letter that will probably bring forth a reply, he has so informed the House and Senate committees on Immigration, which are jointly investigating the subject. His assuming the responsibility for this expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars does not, however, make the expenditure legal, as he may learn before Congress gets through with the investigation.

Governor McKinley sneaked into town last week for the purpose of conferring with some of his friends who want him to formally enter the Presidential race, and the fact that he tried to keep his visit a profound secret by failing to register at the hotel, and that he neglected to call on either Mr. Harrison or Mr. Blaine makes it look as though the Major was lending a willing ear to the siren voices of the anti-Harrison men.

Said Senator Hill to a friend: "If I attempted to deny every newspaper "fake" that is printed about me, I should have no time for anything else. You may always put down as untrue any newspaper statement pretending to say what my future actions will be upon any question. I see no reason why the public should believe that any public man would be so silly as to announce through the newspapers his intentions, thus giving his opponents an opportunity to defeat his plans; but evidently the editors of some papers believe they do, or they would not print the columns of nonsense about the Presidential candidates that are sent out from Washington.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring" are not more vigorous than are those persons who purify their blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The fabled Elixer Vitæ could scarcely impart greater vivacity to the countenance than this wonderful medicine.

The Western Floods.

PEOPLE RESCUED FROM THE ROOFS OF THEIR HOUSES BY BOATS.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The rise in the Mississippi continues, but more slowly, being scarcely more than half an inch per hour. The damage to crops, etc., in the bottom lands grows daily in the immense districts up and down the stream from here now under water. Many small bridges are reported as carried away, and other similar damage. In East St. Louis, though there is much water, the town proper is well out of it, only such buildings as are below grade being in the drink. Of course the surrounding bottom land is thoroughly flooded, and the damage to crops, etc., large.

Every point of danger along the river is carefully guarded, and ample warning will be given where breaks, etc., occur. The steamer Idlewild returned from a trip down the river and reports the rescue of thirty-six families (200 persons) from various islands below here, now covered with water. No loss of life has yet been reported in this vicinity. The river stage at 1 A. M. was 35.8, and very slowly rising, but it is expected to come to a standstill to-morrow. The breaking of the Madison dyke in East St Louis yesterday threatened to bring on a coal famine, which may send the price of coal to twice its present figure per ton.

At Leavenworth, Kansas, the Missouri river has been falling for the last five hours, after remaining stationary all day yesterday. The people thereabouts experience a great relief. If the weather continues favorable it is thought all trains will be running as usual by to-morrow.

The Missouri, at Jefferson City, Missouri, up to midnight is recorded as fallen ten inches, but it has been raining since 5 o'clock last night, and there are apprehensions that another rise is imminent.

Grand river reached its highest point yesterday, and is now at a stand. Owing to the overflow from the stream, all hopes of raising a crop this season has been abandoned.

Do you take your Soda where you happen to be, or keep your thirst for the place you are sure of? Rishton's is the place to be sure of. 5-20 2t.

WHAT IS

SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

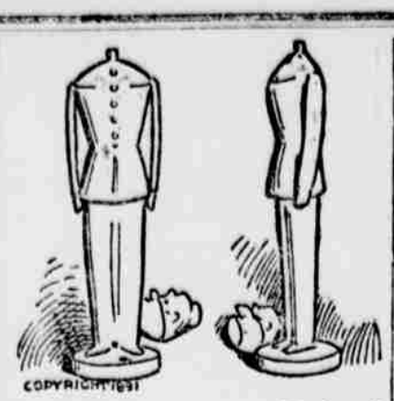
100 Doses One Dollar

Cook's Cotton Root COMPOUND.

A recent discovery by an old physician. Successfully used monthly by thousands of ladies. Is the only perfectly safe and reliable medicine discovered. Beware of unprincipled druggists who offer inferior medicines in place of this. Ask for COOK'S COTTON ROOT COMPOUND, take no substitute, or inclose $1 and 6 cents in postage in letter, and we will send, sealed, by return mail. Full sealed particulars in plain envelope, to ladies only, 2 stamps. Address POND LILY COMPANY, No. 3 Fisher Block, Detroit, Mich.



Heads off disease—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In a way, that you can understand, too, by purifying the blood. When you're weak, dull and languid, or when blotches and eruptions appear—that's the time to take it, no matter what the season. It's easier to prevent than to have to cure.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofulous, Skin, or Scalp Diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula), in its earlier stages, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it does'nt benefit or cure, you have your money back.

You pay only for the good you get.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy lose $500 if you're not cured of Catarrh. They promise to pay you that if they can't cure you. What do you lose by trying it? Is there anything to risk, except your Catarrh?

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1892.

The lawyers generally were pleased with Judge Metzger's manner of conducting business in court. He is prompt in his decisions, and when he once makes a ruling he does not permit any back talk.

W. S. Rishton, the Druggist, has secured the services of an experienced drug clerk from Philadelphia. All prescriptions left in his hands will be compounded by an experienced hand, and delivered when requested.

Prescriptions filled at night by applying at his residence Market St., below Main. 5-20 2t.

Miss Rose Stadon, who has been clerking at I. W. McKelvy's store for some time past, has been compelled to give up her position, by the death of her sister, Mrs. John C. Parker of Greenwood township, who died on Sunday last leaving her husband and six children, the youngest only two weeks old. Miss Stadon will remain with them, and have the care of the children.

The number of shares of stock allotted to the first series of Industrial Building and Loan Association of Bloomsburg, Pa., have been taken and the association will issue stock in the second series upon the 7th day of June next, that being the time of their next regular monthly meeting. The number of shares will be limited to five hundred in each series. First payment will be $2.00 per share and $1.00 per share a month thereafter. Par value of each share $200.00. Further information may be had by calling at the office of the secretary, Wirt's Block, Bloomsburg, Pa.

A. N. YOST.
5-13-3t Secretary.

W. S. Rishton, a graduate of the Phila. College of Pharmacy, has opened an elegant new store in Ent's building one door below the Farmer's National Bank where he will be pleased to see any who may need anything in his line.

He carries the largest, finest and best line of toilet preparations, perfumes, and sundries in the town.

His prescription department is stocked with a complete line of pure drugs and chemicals. Every prescription which goes out of his store is guaranteed to be composed of perfectly pure ingredients and exactly as specified on the Physician's prescription.

Look at Your Boy.

Study his tastes and his abilities. If he is an every day sort of a mutton don't try to make something else out of him by putting a lion skin on him. A lion is no better than a lamb. If it were God would have made all lambs lions. If your boy is built for a plow horse don't spoil the plow horse trying to make of him a racer. He will not make one, and he will be spoiled in disposition for anything. Teach him to make the best of the talents that are given him, and he will be a credit to himself and to you.—Bradford Era.

Gilmore's store and restaurant are among the finest in the land. New paint and paper have added to them greatly. The dining room walls are covered with French plate bevel mirrors, with chenille curtains at the windows and doors. The entire house is richly and tastefully furnished. By the way, the season has opened for spring chicken on Saturday nights, and Mrs. Gilmore cooks them most deliciously.

DEMOCRATS, ATTENTION!

Two years ago I announced myself as a candidate for the Legislature, and published during the campaign a circular setting forth my views, from which at this time permit me to quote: "If nominated and elected, I pledge you a faithful service as Representative, supporting the platform and the party, and in all things obeying the will of my constituency, regardless of my own private opinions; that upon questions of public concern, the peoples' will would be my law." Upon that pledge I went before the people. You gave me fifty-eight convention votes, more than two-thirds of the whole vote. At the polls you gave me 4,714 votes, all of which to me was most gratifying, and for which I am and ever will be truly thankful. I now ask of you a repetition of your kindness of 1890, with a wish that you will make my nomination unanimous for a second term to the Penn'a Legislature of 1893. If I have demonstrated that a "public office is a public trust, to be administered in the interest of the public," I shall expect a verdict at your hands of "well done good and faithful servant." I hereby renew my pledges A. D. 1890. E. M. TEWKSBURY.

Catawissa, Pa., May 16, 1892.

As we go to press Thursday we learn of the sudden death of A. W. Fry. He complained of sickness through the day and immediately after eating supper died on a sofa without any warning. He was sixty-nine years of age, had always been a resident of Bloomsburg, this being his birthplace. For many years he has been a faithful janitor of the public schools and sexton at the Episcopal church.

Funeral services will be held at the house Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. P. A. Heilman of the Lutheran church, of which he had been a member for many years. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. M. L. Kline, to survive him.

Change in Time Table.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company announces that on May 22d inst the summer Time Table will go into effect. This Company having ever in view the furnishing the best of accomodations for its patrons, will on above date place in service a through Pullman Parlor Car between Williamsport and Philadelphia to be run westward on train 21 leaving Philadelphia, Broad street 4.25 P. M. arriving at Williamsport 10.20 P. M. and eastward on train 14 leaving Williamsport 8.25 A. M. arriving in Philadelphia, Broad Street Station 3.00 P. M. This latter train will arrive in Philadelphia 15 minutes earlier than on present schedule making close connections for all sea shore points This improvement in time and the additional Parlor car service, will no doubt be greatly appreciated by the traveling public.

No other changes of importance in Time Table will be made except that train 16 now leaving Williamsport for the East and South at 2.40 A. M. will leave 25 minutes later.

Why They Are Poor.

Country editors always remain poor, but that is because they are not mean enough to get rich. In order to get rich it is only necessary to trust nobody; to befriend none, to get everything and save all you get; to stint ourselves and everybody belonging to us; to be friend to no man and have no man for our friend; to heap interest upon interest, cent upon cent, to be mean, miserly, and despised for some thirty years, and riches will come as sure as disease and disappointment. And when pretty near enough wealth is collected by a disregard of the human heart at the expense of every enjoyment save that of wallowing in filthy meanness, death comes to finish the work. Country editors prefer to remain poor, live happy and die happy. —Jefferson County Sentinel.

Elmer E. Mears has a nice grocery store at corner of Fifth and West streets. He makes frequent visits to the country and usually has fresh butter and eggs. Fresh groceries of all kinds can be had at his store.

The following letters are held at the Bloomsburg, Pa., post office and will be sent to the dead letter office May 31, 1892.

Mr. J. M. Brown, Miss. Lizzie Bowman, Mr. O. W. Crawford, Mr. Fred Stahl, Miss Delia Shultz, Mrs. M. J. Welliver.

Persons calling for these letters will please say they were advertised May 17, 1892. One cent will be charged on each letter advertised.

Some of the Latest Fads.

Late news from Paris is to the effect that sealing wax has suddenly become once more fashionable. A meaning is now attached to each color. White sealing wax means a proposal of marriage; black, of course, mourning; violet, condolence; brown or old gold, an invitation to dinner; ruby is used by lovers; crimson is reserved strictly for business; green means hope; pale gray, friendship; pink, love letters; yellow, jealousy; gold and silver, constancy, etc. Note paper is to be had in corresponding shades and in all shades and forms.

Mourning paper is now absolutely black, edged with silver, and silver ink is used to write thereupon. A pretty novelty is the flower paper. It is of pale blue, pink, lilac or green, and is powdered all over with the buds and petals of flowers in a yet lighter hue. Forget-me-nots or gentianellas on the blue, roses and apple blossoms on the pink, crocuses, violets or twigs of lavender on the lilac, and buttercups and daisies on the green. The envelopes match the paper and are lined with silver. These are the latest fads in stationery.

The Deepest Lake in America.

Not long since we gave size and location of the deepest lake in this department. Below will be found some curious facts concerning "the deepest lake in America."

It is in the Cascade Mountains, about seventy-five miles northeast of Jacksonville, Ore. It is called the Great Sunk Lake, and far outrivals the famous valley of Sinbad the Sailor. It averages 2000 feet down to the water on all sides. It is about fifteen miles long and four and a half wide, and looks like a mammoth sheet of glass, its mountainous shore preventing the wind from ever ruffling its surface. Locally it is believed to bottomless, thousands of feet of line having been let into its clear bosom without the weight touching anything more solid than water.

For thousands of ages it has lain still, silent and mysterious, in the heart of the Cascades looking like a gigantic trench scooped out by the hands of a giant genii.

DR. MORITZ SALM.

This eminent Physician has devoted a life-time to his specialty-diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat, Lung and Chronic Diseases.

The Doctor has been for years a Professor and lecturer in several of our largest Medical Colleges, and has earned great fame as an authority and author on all subjects concerning his specialty.

The celebrated Authors and Medical Lecturers and Greatest living Specialists for the treatment and cure of all long-standing and difficult chronic diseases, and diseases of the Blood, Nervous System, and Eye and Ear, Nose and Throat, will visit this county and meet their many patients and friends, and give ALL AFFLICTED an opportunity to consult them Free of Charge, and secure the latest and best treatment for such diseases as the regular family physician is not prepared to treat.

The Doctor's reputations are not only National but Continental, as they have visited Europe several times and treated thousands of cases, and made many remarkable cures, while bringing together their Anatomical Museum and fine collection of instruments, appliances, etc, which is the largest and finest collection now owned by any one in the country.

They will visit this county every four weeks, thus saving their patients the trouble and expense of visiting the city, as they are the only physicians and surgeons in this country who carry their own Manikins, Dodels Miagrams, etc. to illustrate and make plain to all afflicted the cause and nature of their disease.

CHRONIC DISEASES.

The Doctors treat no acute diseases, but make an entire specialty of chronic and long standing diseases. Cases given up by other doctors and pronounced incurable, they most desire to see. The Doctors have treated over 15,000 cases in Ohio in the last twelve years, many of which had been given up as incurable, some to be blind, others deaf, and a large number of the invalids for life. But behold! now they See and hear, and many are started on the high road to health and recovery every day.

The doctors are surrounded with the largest collection of fine instruments ever imported to this country for examining and treating all chronic diseases of the HEAD, FACE, EYE, EAR, THROAT, HEART, LUNGS, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Skin, Brain and Nervous System, Cancers, Tumors, Piles, Swellings Old Sores, Fits, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gout, Sick Headache, Debility, Depression of Spirits, Diseases of Children, Hereditary Diseases, &c., and in fact, all long-standing and Chronic Diseases.

EAR TROUBLES ARE CURED

In an astonishing quick time. They will relieve you of all roaring, hissing and singing noises, heaviness, itching, pain, running of the ear, will close up a hole in a drum of fifty years standing: will insert Artificial Ear Drums or their own invention with astonishingly gratifying results.

Diseases of Women, such as have baffled the skill of all other physicians and remedies, quickly cured. Cancers, tumors, fibroid and polypoid growths cured without the use of the knife or caustics. No cutting, no pain, no danger.

A WORD ABOUT CATARRH.

It is in the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insiduously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelopes the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient and all alleviaties are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. The Drs. have by a treatment local and constitutional, made the cure of this dread disease a certainty, and has never failed. Even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions hearing, smell and taste have been removed, and the disease thoroughly averted.

They recognize the great principal that genius or talent, or exceptional skill in and profession, is a great public trust to be executed for the greatest good for the greatest number, hence they call your attention to the fact of their visit to your community, and to what you may expect from their treatment. The Doctors have devoted years to the study and treatment of

Chronic and Complicated Diseases

Which other physicians failed to treat successfully. Those delicate functions of the human frame, whose derangements have for centuries defied human skill, have in many cases yielded to the patient investigation and untiring perseverance of these doctors, and thousands of sufferers from diseases heretofore pronounced incurable, have consulted these gentlemen and been by them restored to health and usefulness

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE EYE,

Such as Granulated Lids, Chronic Inflammation of the Lids, of the Iris, of the Choroid, of the Retina, Chronic Ulcerations, Spasms of the Lids, Cancer of the Lids and Eye, Tears running over the cheeks, Day and Night Blindness Purulent or Mattering Sore Eyes, Gonorrheal Ophthalmia, Syphilitic Ophthalmia, Red Blotches or Brown ones on the Ball, Phlyctennar Ophthalmia, Opacities of Milk White Spots on the Eye, Glaucoma or Cupping of the Nerve, Amaurosis, Falling out of Lashes, Sores, Redness of Edges of Lids and Eyes, and all other diseases to which the eye or its appendages are liable, positive and rapid cure guaranteed.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL MAP.

The public school map puts the American educational system in a striking form.

Thirteen million pupils are now enrolled in the public schools of the United States—that is, there are more than three times as many pupils as the entire population of the United States in 1800. The entire population in 1830 was 12,866,000; there is consequently a larger nation of children now in our free schools than the whole nation of sixty years ago.

These 13,000,000 public school pupils are one-fifth of our present population of 65,000,000. There are something over a million more in private and parochial schools. But it is this nation of our free school youth, this nation within the nation, that will be controlling the republic fifteen years from now. These "children of the states," imbued with our characteristic American spirit, will soon be the leaders of the people who are to solve the problems of the opening years of the coming century.

One-fifth of our population in the public schools means that the American idea is that childhood and youth shall enjoy a sacred immunity from labor while the preparation for life is going on. In all our states the age when children can be employed for wages during the school term is steadily creeping upward. The time is not far off when one-fourth instead of one-fifth of its population will be enrolled in the schools. Here is the place for state legislation to make rapid and sure strokes. When the children of a poor family are hired out for wages there comes an apparent relief to the family; but child labor invariably reduces the labor of adults. Raising the school age always operates to raise the wages of the men and women to whom labor belongs. In the states not yet awake to this the children who ought to be in school are with their little hands holding down the general rate of adult wages. If fifteen were made the universal school age, with strict penalties for hiring a child under fifteen during school hours, millions of toiling children would be added to the hopeful nation of pupils now in the public schools.

Who are the instructors of this vast democracy of youth? Three hundred and fifty-two thousand teachers are employed. One-third of them are men, two-thirds are women. The men are usually well trained. The proportion of trained female teachers is increasing year by year, as the normal schools send out their classes. Nevertheless, scores of thousands of these female teachers are untrained. Forty per cent. of all the female teachers teach for only one term! Think what that means. In the rural districts of many states teaching is a "job" to which almost any girl may turn. Careful examinations of teachers are not to be expected when the school fund is so penurious that the cheapest teachers are the only applicants.

The faults of the American public school system, however, are all on the surface and can easily be remedied. State superintendents and higher educators generally are giving to all the weaknesses discernible in our system their careful attention. They are determined that the new century shall open upon an educational plant as nearly without defects as progressive energy can make it.

The public school is our most distinctive American institution. It is this same public school which, more than race, has made the difference between this republic and the republics of South America. When the world gathers here at our 400th anniversary to scrutinize our life this, our proudest institution, will be pointed out as the clearest source of American greatness and enlightenment.

It is a very fitting thing that the celebration of Columbus Day, Oct. 12, be placed in the hands of the American public school. Through the school house flag movement, and the education in patriotism aroused by it, the schools of the republic have been grasping the significance of their relation to the life of the nation. As our 13,000,000 of public school pupils see committed to them the celebration of America's greatest anniversary they will receive a new and inspiring lesson in the responsibilities of public leadership which devolves upon the educated American.

In Peace.

How shall I serve my fathers' land?
There are no battles to be won,
No deeds that heroes might have done,
No lives to give at her command.

Nay, none of these—but lives to live,
Within, of gentle soul and pure,
Without, of zeal and courage sure,
For all the best that life can give.

And then to crown the finished span,
To honor country and her dead,
'Twere meed enough that it be said
He lived a true American.

M. A. De Wolfe Howe, Jr.

THE SCHOOL HOUSE FLAG.

It Stimulates the Children's Interest and Promotes Patriotism.

The organized "school house flag movement" has been in progress during the greater part of four years. In that short time the seed sown in one earnest suggestion has borne fruit in school after school, in town after town, in state after state.

Though there are still many schools which are not as yet provided with the flag, the time does not seem far distant when no public school shall be too poor, too remote or too indifferent to have the stars and stripes floating above its roof.

Sufficient time has passed since the movement began to make it possible to judge the results of the unfurling of the flag above so many schools.

Has the proceeding had a real meaning to the scholars? Has it stirred up in the breasts of boys and girls the hope of living to be brave men and good women?

Has it begun to serve with the children of the millions from abroad who inherit no love for our country as a symbol around which will grow up a thoroughly American feeling?

Has it stimulated a love of the study of history, and given children a new idea of the significance of law and order with freedom, so that they themselves become orderly and subject to wholesome discipline?

The writer has seen a large number of letters from teachers throughout the country, over whose schools the flag has been raised, which answered these very questions.

"The flag has come to mean something," writes one teacher in Minnesota, "whereas before it was a meaningless piece of cloth." "I can see," writes another teacher from Missouri, "quite a change in the children's feelings toward the flag. Now they seem to think that it is their flag—an effect that never could have been produced by talking."

Many other teachers report a distinct growth of real patriotism. In a school in Maine, "almost every day after flag raising one could hear the children cheering the old flag."

Even the little children count the stars in the blue field of their flag, and learn what they mean. The older pupils ransack the books of the history of the flag itself, and in so doing are impressed with a new idea of its story and of its relation to their own condition and privileges.

In this way the school house flag, seen so often and so constantly present in the pupils' thoughts, has a marked influence, as several teachers report, upon foreign born children and the children of foreign born parents. One teacher from the west writes:

"Eighty-six per cent. of my scholars were either born in other countries or are the children of foreign born parents. The effect of the flag upon my school has been to make every one of my pupils enthusiastic Americans. If for any reason the flag is not raised for a day, they clamor for its raising. No more enthusiastic or patriotic set of children can be found in the United States than those of my school."

These children begin to feel for America the same patriotic devotion which their fathers were taught from the cradle to manhood, in song and in story, to feel toward the lands from which they came.

The flag increases the children's interest in the school, and this must react upon conduct. Many teachers testify to this. One in Connecticut says, "I notice it is easier to govern the children since the flag was raised." Another in Massachusetts says, "It has been a grand step in our school toward making brave, manly boys and womanly girls."

It has been proposed that the raising of the flag be one of the exercises in all the public school celebrations on Columbus Day. This arrangement will stimulate all the schools which have not yet raised the colors to obtain a flag before that date.

The executive committee of the national Columbian public school celebration have taken a good step in announcing that any school writing to their chairman in Boston will be given practical suggestions and material aid on how to procure a flag. Not one public school in America ought to allow itself to be without the stars and stripes on this memorable occasion.

James B. Upham.

The Greatest of All Expositions.

The buildings for the Columbian exposition will cost $8,000,000. And yet this enormous sum represents less than one-half of the estimated total expenditure for this great enterprise.

Truly, Americans are justly entitled to the reputation which is accorded to them, both at home and abroad—that of never doing anything by halves.

"What's worth doing at all is worth doing up particularly brown," is a thoroughly American idea. It applies alike to great expositions, gigantic feats of engineering, the founding of colleges, churches, schools and other public institutions, to political contests and patriotic celebrations. Scan the entire horizon of American activities and the truth of this assertion comes back to us with redoubled force.

A great national event, however, shows Americans at their best. The Columbian exposition will offer proof of this statement.

The national public school celebration of Oct. 12 will be particularly unique in character. It has no parallel in American history. The public school has never been the center of a strictly national demonstration. It stands pre-eminently at the head of American institutions. The idea that it be the leader in a celebration which proclaims the completion of 400 years of American life has struck a responsive chord which is already sounding throughout the nation.

Glorious Possibilities.

It is only as one rises to the national conception of what Columbus Day, Oct. 12, may be made that it takes on its true character. The day itself, simply as a way of calling up the past and giving it historical significance, will be full of meaning, but it will be much more than this. The historical part of the celebration is not confined to the mere act of the discovery of America by Columbus on the morning of Oct. 12. It is a day that reaches back through four centuries of progress, and it includes all that America has passed through in these 400 years—the crowding out of one race by another; the succession of one civilization after another; the growth of new ideas, and the putting of old ideas to new service; the introduction of nobler manners, better laws, a larger and freer life than the world has known before, and as the fundamental element in this new order, the creation and the development of our public school system, than which nothing is more truly representative of American ideas and institutions.

The eagerness and appreciation, with which the suggestion for this peculiar celebration has been caught up shows that it touches the right chord in the patriotic hearts of the young people throughout the whole nation.

The Twilight of the Century.

We are in the Saturday evening of the fourth century of America's discovery. We are nearing one of the great milestones of history. An epoch in American life is closing. In a few weeks we pass the day which rounds up the full measure of the 400 years that are gone. But it is not proposed that we stand even for a day on that great dividing line to speculate upon American achievement and progress. We shall pause for but a moment and contemplate with wonder and admiration the grandest production and the most enduring monument of the first 400 years of American life—our public school system.

The earnest enthusiasm with which the public schools of America are grasping the idea of a Columbian public school celebration for Oct. 12 augurs well for a successful national demonstration.

On Oct. 12 the eyes of the nation will be turned upon the public schools, which form the keystone in the arch of our civilization. Throughout the length and breadth of our land the 13,000,000 pupils enrolled in our free public schools will, as with one voice, sound a note which will thrill the nation.

Moths and Their Remedy.

At this season of the year, when one begins to pack away winter furs and flannels, the mind grows excited over the prospect of moths. What is the best mode of warfare to wage against the pest of the household, the moth, is the query of the anxious one who has under her charge rugs, winter clothing and heavy draperies. Call in the professional packer and he will tell you that the most reliable thing to use as a preventive is turpentine. Rugs sprinkled with this and rags saturated in the fluid laid in between the folds will, if they are carefully beaten and rolled in cotton sheets, keep them in safety from the persistent marauder. So effective is turpentine that drenched cloths hung in closets will banish the moth from the vicinity.

66 CHEEVER PL., BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 19, '90.

For over twelve years my son has been afflicted with spasms; he would have one every two weeks until about six months ago, then even two a week We took him to a number of first-class physicians and we tried everything and any number of remedies without deriving any encouragement in his case, and had commenced to despair of ever being able to cure him at all, when we heard of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and concluded to give it a trial. The result has more than satisfied us! It is more than three months since he commenced to take this Nerve Tonic and he has never been sick since. Please accept our most sincere thanks, for we feel that you have not only cured him of a great affliction but have saved his life as well, as we do not think he would have lived long in the condition he was in before he commenced taking your valuable remedy. HOW TO GIVE PLEASING TONE TO A ROOM AT SLIGHT COST.

Secret of Decorative Success. — Good Judgment and a Willing Hand May Work Wonders, Even Though the Materials Used be Simple and Inexpensive.

Young housekeepers, and old ones, too, for that matter, often find the decoration of walls and ceilings a hard nut to crack, even when the house is their own, and a moderate expenditure of money for the purpose quite within their reach. But when the apartments are rented with the prospect of a flitting to some others at no very remote period staring one in the face, the question what to do with the blank white walls becomes almost an unguessable conundrum. It is even worse when an attempt at decoration, resulting in an atrocious combination of colors, has been made.

Where economy is the prime object, distemper, may be resorted to, although it is doubtful if anything so perishable as distemper is really economical. Flatted oil paint is far better on account of the readiness with which it lends itself to thorough cleansing with soap and water. Having settled upon either one or the other the question of tint suggests itself. Here the situation of the room, its size and height, and, with old housekeepers who have many furnishings to which the walls must serve as a background, the question of harmony and fitness enter in. Shall the tint be light or dark, a positive or a broken color? What is the color of the wood work? These are questions which each one must ask and answer before settling upon any tint or tone.

It is safe in our climate to decide upon a warm rather than a cold tint of a medium depth of stone, and a broken rather than a positive color. Another safeguard is to make the walls lighter than the wood work, and the golden rule to have the coloring always become brighter as it ascends must not be lost sight of. Thus, if the frieze is strong and deep in coloring, the walls must be somewhat darker and the floor covering darker still. It is best also to lean toward harmony of analogy than to contrasts when dealing with large surfaces.

After the wall is tinted a simple stencil pattern may be applied all over, or merely as a frieze. If the latter is used it must be purely conventional, picked out with gold or some of the colored bronzes. Here another point should be observed. To many persons gold is gold, and they have a vague idea that it is yellow. Yellow gold answers admirably in many cases, but with olive, or gray, or bluish greens the effect will be decidedly better if the gold inclines strongly to red. It is better, too, to confine the gold to delicate lines or touches than to splash it all over the walls, which causes them to appear to be closing in. The stenciled frieze is more troublesome than to apply a frieze of paper. These are, even the cheapest of them, good in color and design. Another advantage in using the paper frieze is that a length of it may be pinned or tacked to the wall and the effect studied before it is permanently applied.

The ceiling, must, of course, be lighter than the side walls, and, unless the room be very small, a border of the same or a similar border to the frieze, but of a lighter tint and less decided pattern, is desirable. In this matter the individual taste of the decorator will assert itself and one will with these simple and inexpensive means bring harmony where another would only succeed in working discord.

The foregoing outlines a cheap method of dealing with walls and ceilings, but the cost of even this method is a serious matter in some cases. The white walls are grievous. The prettiest of furnishings appear at their worst against such a background. Where the coarse gray mortar is left without a "finishing" coat of "hard finish" it is somewhat better, but even then it is bad enough. Something must be done. If one is blessed with the coarse gray plaster, a fringe of paper or stencil extending to the picture rail will do much to mitigate the bareness of the walls. A similar decoration on the ceiling will help matters. If the walls are "hard finished" the whiteness must be gotten rid of. Perhaps the simplest and cheapest way to do this is to cover them with common brown packing paper. This, with a cheap paper frieze, or with a simple conventional stenciled frieze, may be made to work wonders. Because a thing is cheap it need not be inartistic, and a harmony in color may be worked out in the most inexpensive materials.

To still lessen the expense one may select some of the pretty papers offered by dealers in paper hangings, that if well chosen are very effective. The best, which may also be the cheapest, are those in which all the colors of the rainbow are mingled in such a manner as to produce an effect of gray, or brown, or terracotta, or olive, or any tint that is required. Two of these may be combined with good effect. Cheaper still, and by no means ineffective, is tinting the "whitewash" the desired shade. This makeshift, however, can not be recommended except for rooms that are very little used. The white, or whatever color wash, will rub off with the slightest provocation, will spot with water, even the slightest dampness will discolor it, and vexation of spirit will be the result. Still, it may be made to answer as a dernier resort, and is better than bare, white walls, which are sepulchral in the extreme. Schemes of color will suggest themselves to the artistic eye, and the economical mind will find ways and means to carry them out in one way or another, even where the means are most limited.

A Problem.

The other day a journal, hitherto without a spot on its character, inquired with well-feigned innocence: "How can five persons divide five eggs so that each man will receive one, and still one remain in the dish?" After several hundred people went two-thirds distracted in the mazes of this proposition, the journal meanly says: "One takes the dish with the egg."

THE BEST APERIENT

In modern pharmacy is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Except in extreme cases, physicians have abandoned the use of drastic purgatives, and recommend a milder, but no less effective medicine. The favorite is Ayer's Pills, the superior medicinal virtues of which have been certified to under the official seals of state chemists, as well as by hosts of eminent doctors and pharmacists. No other pill so well supplies the demand of the general public for a safe, certain, and agreeable family medicine.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever used; and in my judgment no better general remedy was

Ever Devised

I have used them in my family and caused them to be used among my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge many cases of the following complaints have been completely and permanently cured by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."—J. O. Wilson, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—Wm. H. DeLaucett, Dorset, Ontario.

The Right Words.

Closely connected with the subject of the power of plain speech is that of the use of the right words in the right places. When cumbrous or extravagant forms of speech have been abandoned in favor of simple and straightforward language, it is still necessary for the speaker to consider carefully whether he is expressing what he means. The lack of a nice discrimination in the choice of words frequently make ridiculous or ineffective what otherwise might have been a telling piece of English. It is better to know the meaning of a few words than to guess at the meaning of many. No word is so common that some new force may not be found for it by a consultation of the dictionary—an exercise which often proves to intelligent persons that they do not know its proper definition at all. It is surprising to see how persistently some early misapprehension, or some erroneous definition given by parent or teacher, will cling to the memory. Again, even when the rough meaning of a word has been ascertained, there still remains something to be done in searching for the finer distinctions between it and kindred words. Something more than mere strength is needed; there must also be skill and discretion in the use of language. A great writer is almost always an apt writer.

Stutterers in the Fourth Century

Divers, we see doe Stut. The Cause may bee (in most) the Refrigeration of the Tongue; Whereby it is lesse apt to move. And therefore we see that Naturalls doe generally Stut: And we see in those that Stut, if they drinke Wine moderately, they Stut lesse, because it heateth:

And so we see, that they Stut, doe Stut more in the first offer to speake, than in Continuance; Because the Tongue is, by Motion, somewhat heated. In some also, it may be (though rarely), the Drinesse of the Tongue; which likewise maketh it lesse apt to move, as well as Cold; for it is an Affect that it cometh to some Wise and Great Men.

As it did unto Moses, who was Linguæ Prapeditæ; and many Stutters (wee finde) are very Cholericke Men; Choler Enducing a Drinesse in the Tongue.—From Sylva Sylvarum, Century IV.

The great thing is the sense of having done the best—the sense which is the real life of the artist and the absence of which is his death, of having drawn from his intellectual instrument the finest music that nature had hidden in it, of having played it as it should be played.
